

Abstract of Disclosure

Archery products have become more popular than ever and the cost of these products has increased substantially therefore trying to retrieve some of these products such as the arrowhead can save the consumer money.

So I invented an Arrowhead extractor in hopes that a hunter can retrieve his or hers arrowhead if by chance it ended up embedded in a log or tree.